

MEDIA RELEASE – LIGHTING COUNCIL AUSTRALIA

LIGHTING BUSINESSES ON THE FOREFRONT OF SUSTAINABILITY RECOGNISED

24 October 2023

Three Australian businesses were recognised among a packed field of finalists for the Sustainability Award at the National Awards for Excellence in Lighting.

Simon O’Donnelly of Signify, the group including leading lighting brands such as Philips, received the Award for his work leading innovation in LED technology which has reduced household and commercial energy consumption in Australia.

Fariyal Khanbabi, Group CEO of Dialight PLC, was also recognised for her work in LED innovation, with projects such as the Ultra-Efficient Vigilant High Bay product reducing energy usage in the industrial sector.

Haneco Lighting, another leading business in LED innovation was also recognised for its pioneering status in reducing energy usage up to 90% and delivering products lasting up to 25 times longer with LED technology.

The Australian lighting industry is proudly on the forefront of sustainable practices in consumer, commercial and industrial sectors, putting Australia on the map as a hub of technological innovation.
